One additional reference, apparently to a Pettipoole child, exists in the Saint Dunstan's registers from the decade of the 1630s. The entry records a death, for which there is no corresponding baptism entry, and is written in such a way as to imply that the deceased person was a child (or at the least, an unmarried person still living in the parent's home). It reads:

> Burialls
> 1631 October 27
> Mary daughter of John Pettipoole of Brooke street carpenter[ccxxviii]

This citation again appears to refer to John, father of Samuel and grandfather to William, the immigrant. If so, Mary, the deceased daughter, could be from an unrecorded birth either to the dead Elizabeth Strondall, first wife of John, or to the later wife, Mary Wellin. If the latter, Mary would have arrived after John had entered his sixth decade of life. However, echoing a previous conjecture, Mary could also be a daughter to the younger John, son of the elder John and Elizabeth Strondall. There is no certain way, at this point, to test the two possibilities.

After the formation of Samuel's family in the 1620s and 1630s, the records for this branch of the Pettypool family are relatively few. We do not, for example, have any additional records referring to William, the immigrant, until he appears in Virginia in the late 1650s. Nor do we know when Alice, William's mother, died. In those instances in which we do again hear of Pettypools, we find them coping with a time of tumult in English political life – the English Civil War(s).

Greatly simplified, the years between roughly 1640 and 1651 were a time associated with political and military skirmishes between two political factions, the Parliamentarians and the Royalists, about how England would be governed.[ccxxix] The ultimate outcome would lead to the English Interregnum (1649-1660), the longest period in England's political history when it would be ruled, under Oliver Cromwell, as a republic.[ccxxx] As the seat of government, Greater London played a crucial role in the prosecution of the hostilities (although it was not the actual site of any serious military battle).

In a forerunner to actual military engagement, English men were asked in the summer of 1641 to sign an oath affirming their allegiance to the cause of Parliament and the Protestant religion against the alleged "popish" (Catholic) tendencies of King Charles I (he had married a Catholic). We read:

This cause which has been removed from the County Court came on this day to be heard by consent of parties on the Bill and answers of the adult defendants and of the infant defendants by their guardian ad litem, and upon the exhibits and depositions filed and was argued by Counsel. Upon consideration whereof the Court being of opinion that the interest of all the parties concerned will be promoted by a sale of the tract of land in the proceedings mentioned instead of a division in kind: doth adjudge, order and decree that Alexander Donnan be and he is hereby appointed a Commissioner to make sale of the tract of land in the Bill mentioned upon a credit of six, 12 and 18 months except for so much money in cash, as will be sufficient to defray the expenses of this suit and the sale hereby ordered to be made, after first advertising the time and place of sale once a week for four weeks in one of the newspapers printed in the City of Petersburg and by hand bills posted at the front door of the Courthouse of this County on a Court day and at two or more public places in the neighbourhood of said land, so as to give general notice of said sale and if in the judgment of said Commissioner it will promote the said sale he is at liberty to cause the said tract of land to be divided into two or more lots so as to suit purchasers the defered payments for said land to be secured by bonds with approved personal security and the title to the land sold to be retained as a further security for the same: But before the said Commissioner shall proceed to execute this order he shall file with the Clerk of this Court bond with good security in the penalty of five thousand Dollars with condition faithfully to perform his duty under this or any other order which may be made in this Cause in which he is required to act, and make report of his proceedings to Court.

The Smith Shop here is run by Wm. Jones, an industrious negro.

Other Farms.—To the west of Sawdust are the farms of Mrs. R. W. and Jim Sargent, Geo. A. Kinzer, and D. E. Grimmett. Following the pike to Williamsport comes the G. W. Kinzer place and the small farm of J. W. Eskew. Then the fine old plantation of 400 acres belonging to T. J. Dorsett, who was born in Md., and came here in 1858. He has reared a large family of children, but all are now gone from home.

N. E. White.—Along the Duck River Valley north and east from Sawdust are some fine farms. A. E. Moore owns 210 a. two miles north of Sawdust, while the 145-acre farm of N. E. White, 3 m. N. E. from Sawdust, is an excellent wheat and stock farm. Mr. White was born in the old 10th Dist., March, 72, son of Luke S. and Nancy J. (Sparkman) White. His grandfather, Media White, came from N. C. to this county before 1820. N. E. married Mattie, dau. of Robt. N. and Helena (Williams) McBride. Their children are Ethleen, Clyde, Marvin, Austin, and Hubert Glenn. Mr. White served as magistrate from 1901 until the district change was made.

Williamsport.

From the early settlement of Maury Co. a ferry across Duck River has been maintained at this place. It was first kept by Coleman and known as Coleman's Ferry, succeeding which came the Williams family, Edward Williams having spent a lifetime here. Other early settlers in the vicinity were Gordon, Sowell, Walker, Gantt, Pipkin, Cook, Edwards, Compton, Pool, Bullock, English, Choate, Alderson, and Crosby. John Muirhead located south of the river opposite Gordon's Ferry. Sam Oliphant built the first flatboat, which was loaded with corn and run to a Southern market. Maj. John Bullock, J. O. Cook, and James Blakely brought salt on keel boats from Shawneetown, Ill., about 1814. Sam Tycer was blacksmith; Geo. Cook, tailor; John Blackburn and Wm. Hood, cabinetmakers; Tom P. Johnson, tanner; Wm. Akin, innkeeper.

The Bridge.—Nimrod Porter, about 1850, contracted to erect stone abutments for a bridge here, but was stopped by the Duck River Navigation Co. (See page 14.) Henry Zellner finally erected the bridge on cedar piles, 1855. It consisted of three spans of 137 ft. each. This was burned in 1862 by the Confederate, Colonel Scott, of Texas, as a military necessity. It was rebuilt in wood in 1871, and the wood replaced by an iron structure, 1893, at a cost of $15,000.

Churches.—The Williamsport M. E. Church, South, was organized about the time Mt. Nebo was built, and as it is on the same circuit, for many years past it has had the same chain of pastors. A small brick church was built before 1840, which, after the purchase of the Christian property, was used as a cooper shop until about 1885.

The present fine edifice was projected by the Christian Society before 1850 as a church and academy; but not being able to pay the builder, he foreclosed upon the property, and it was purchased by the Methodists, in 1854, and a new front built on the structure the following year. The present stewards are W. J. Russell, A. E. Moore, Jas. Dobbins, J. F. Porter; trustees are J. F. Porter, W. J. Russell, A. C. Allen. Edward English, reared here, became an early M. E. preacher, and located in Arkansas.

An Episcopal Church was built here in the 40's, and for many years held a large membership. Rectors before the war were Leacock, Noble, Collins, and others. After the war came Rector Dunlop, who was also a teacher.

Presbyterians.—Rev. J. Stephenson Frierson, of Mt. Pleasant, organized a church here early in the 50's, and continued as pastor for over 20 years; C. Foster Williams was pastor, 76-90; S. L. McCarty, J. B. Green, and other supplies, up to 1903, since which services have been discontinued. S. S. Porter, now of Columbia, was an elder in this church for several years.

The colored people have long maintained schools, churches, and lodges in Williamsport. J. H. Carr, who has been pastor of the A. M. E. Church here since Oct., 1903, was born in Texas, Jan., 1863, and has been preaching for 22 years.

Schools.—Among early teachers here were C. F. Collins, Geo. and Edward Gantt, David McCaw, and others. Academies and various private schools were maintained until the present public-school law became effective. A. C. Allen is now in charge of the school.

Williamsport has furnished a fair share of legal talent, among whom were Walter Coleman, Geo. and Edward Gantt, Geo. Smoot, E. H. Hatcher, and W. O. Gordon, the present County Judge.

Doctors.—J. G. Smith was pioneer physician, followed by Hugh Leiper, G. T. Greenfield, and others. Saml. S. Porter came in 1830, continuing until his death, in 73.

Dr. E. E. Collins, born in Bedford Co., graduated from the University of Tennessee, and located in Williamsport some 15 years ago. He was taking a Western tour when the compiler was in town, so we are without further particulars.

Dr. L. E. Ragsdale, born at Santa Fé, July, 1875, is a son of P. H. (former sheriff) and Eugenia (Mangrum) Ragsdale. After graduating from Santa Fé College, he read medicine with W. K. Sheddan, of Williamsport, and graduated from Bellevue Hospital Medical College, 1897. Dr. Ragsdale opened practice at Columbia, 1898, removing to Williamsport, 1901. He married Mary, dau. of J. P. and Cassa (Rucker) Choate, of Williamsport.

Stores.—Coleman & Williams started a store here at an early date. A. W. Walker came in 1835, failing in 1850. Hillick & Prinn kept a small store in 1846-50. Pate Sowell, in connection with the Williamsport Masonic Lodge, erected, in 1848, the brick store building, still in use. J. L. Williams & Co. maintained a large store here prior to the war. G. W. Stockard followed, Porter & Walker, and others in connection with the Walker name have been Choate, Baker, Stockard, and the present Porter.

There have been a number of grocery firms. Stallings & Choate opened a general store, 1896. Mr. Choate died and R. F. Moore became partner, Apr., 98, continuing for five years.

R. F. Moore now keeps a boarding house, Woody & Wilkins run a hack line to Columbia, and Zeb Shouse is blacksmith. Williamsport has fine surroundings, and a cheese factory or something in the manufacturing line might wake up the rather quiet village to its old-time briskness.

To Water Valley.

From Williamsport to Water Valley is five miles, nearly north. On the hilltop and up Leiper's Creek is tne 400-acre farm of Monroe Harris, whose son, T. C., owns 232 a. some 3 miles up the creek. Other farms along the creek are Will Houser, 200 a.; J. D. Kinzer, 400 a.; W. A. Sewell, 150 a.; Josh Williams, 400 a.; John Alderson, 100 a.; Bat Collier, 100 a.; Tom Mayes, 150 a.

Bethel M. E. Church, at the head of Leiper's Creek, and Pleasant Ridge, 3 miles west of Water Valley, have been old landmarks for religious worship in the N. W. corner of Maury Co., and on the same circuit. Under the administration of R. W. Seay, some 25 years ago, the congregation of Pleasant Ridge changed the name to Water Valley M. E. Church, South, and a church house was erected at the village at a cost of $1,200. The society has above 100 members, with J. D. Kinzer supt. of S. S. The stewards are J. W. Kinzer, J. M. and R. P. Pigg. The circuit was formerly connected with Greenbrier and Bethel, but now comprises Godwin, Goshen, Santa Fé, and Water Valley. Recent pastors have been Cherry, Massey, Ransom, White, Byrum, Oakley, Owens; J. W. Hatcher, 1897; J. W. Hensley, 1900; J. G. Blackwood, 1904.

The Union Church was built in the early 80's by the generous people of this neighborhood. It is used by preachers from the Christians, Cumberland Presbyterians, Sanctified, or other denominations.

The School has over 50 enrolled, with Jesse Adkisson, teacher; Lula May Pigg, assistant.

Stores.—Geo. Harlan started a store here some 25 years ago. His partners were Roach and Oakley, and in Oct.,

COLONY OF NORTH CAROLINA 1735-1764 ABSTRACTS OF LAND PATENTS VOL. 1

FOREWORD

Publication of this volume completes Margaret Hofmann's abstracts of grants of patents for land in North Carolina throughout the colonial period, from 1663 through 1775, whether issued by the governor and council under authority of the Lords Proprietors of Carolina (1663-1729) or under authority of King George I, King George II, or King George III (1729-1775). There remains only one other group of records conveying original title to land in colonial North Carolina, and abstracts of those are in preparations by Ms. Hofmann. That group is the body of indented deeds issued out of the proprietary land office of John Carteret, Earl Granville, from 1748 until his death in 1763; they are commonly called "Granville Grants."

In the foreword to the volume of these abstracts for the years 1735 through 1764, the user's attention was called to the fact that after 1744 Crown patents were not issued for land that lay within the Granville Proprietary. At the risk of appearing repetitious or pedantic, one feels obliged to emphasize once more the fact that in this present volume the researcher will not find record of instruments of original title to land in the Granville Proprietary. This district comprised the northern half of North Carolina and included all land lying between the Virginia boundary and the southern boundary of the present counties of Dare, Tyrrell, Washington, Randolph, Davidson, Rowan, and Iredell. Theoretically, the eastern and western boundaries of Lord Granville's tract were formed by the two oceans. For all practical purposes, had that title to be made good, the earl probably could have established his western boundary only at the Mississippi River. The researcher will not, then, find in this volume any titles to land in Northampton County, for example, or Wilkes, or Yadkin, or Davie, or Burke, or any other present day county that lay within the old boundaries of the Granville Proprietary.

This does not mean, let me hasten to say, that researchers will not find names of patentees who lived within the Granville Proprietary but obtained grants within the Crown district in the southern half of North Carolina. One did not have to reside in either half of the province in order to own land there. Some individuals owned enormous landholdings in both districts. A greater number lived first in one district, then in the other, and owned land in both Lord Granville's district and in the Crown's district. Easily available, relatively inexpensive, vacant land is a powerful motivator; it is frequently the underlying force in the movement of population. Conversely, a well-stocked geographical territory is a continuing desideratum of governments and proprietaries. Both the Crown and Earl Granville desired a well-populated district.

The opening of Lord Granville's land office in 1748 obliged the governor of North Carolina to introduce changes in the operation of the Crown land office, since both districts were in competition for the same market. We, therefore, see influences and alterations in the methods of operation of the Crown land office that it may be useful to speak of specifically.

From the earliest days of the Lords Proprietors it was usually possible to secure land only by immigrating or by importing immigrants (called "headrights"). So much land was granted per headright — usually 100 acres per adult male, and varying amounts of females, children, and slaves. Land was seldom sold by the Lords Proprietors for mere cash. The Crown officers continued the headright system of granting land upon importation of settlers and payment of surveyor's and office fees. The headright system was dealt a severe blow from which it never recovered when the Granville land office opened. Lord Granville's agents sold land outright to any purchaser with ready money and did not concern themselves with headrights. The system of granting land in the Crown's district as a reward for immigrating or for importing immigrants appears to have been allowed to lapse just prior to or with the death of Governor Gabriel Johnston (1752). The royal instructions to Governor Arthur Dobbs, dated 17 June 1754, stipulated merely that land be granted to persons who were "in a condition to cultivate and improve the same by settling thereon in proportion to the quantity of acres a sufficient number of white persons or negroes." Surveyors' fees and office fees were still charged by the Crown to the settlers, and an annual quitrent (a form of tax) was reserved to the Crown, of course.

The grants of patent abstracted in this present volume, then, do not represent "headright" grants, and researchers should be careful not to speculate on the size of families by applying to these grants an old headright formula of so many acres per person imported. Great caution must be used, as well, in attempting to deduce inferences about economic well-being of the patentee by the size of his grant. While it is true that the criterion for grants was altered from headrights to "a condition to cultivate and improve" the land that the settler wanted, there is another factor at work in determining the size of the tract granted. In the eastern end of the province, there was naturally less desirable vacant land in the second half of the eighteenth century than there was in the more recently and more sparsely populated western end of the province, where there was an expanding frontier. One should expect to find, and will find, therefore, a great number of grants for small tracts in the eastern counties that have no bearing on the patentee's economic condition.

In addition to abandoning the headright system, Crown officers made improvements in their land office. In the earliest years all applications for vacant land were made directly to the Provincial Secretary who brought the fact of the "entries" to meetings of the governor and council sitting as a Court of Claims. Initially the Crown continued this method of making an "entry" for lands after it had purchased the soil of North Carolina from the Lords Proprietors of Carolina. When Earl Granville's land office opened in 1748, however, his agents rode the court circuit and made themselves readily available throughout the northern half of the province to any who wished to make an "entry" directly with them. The Crown land office did not immediately adopt this convenience of making the entry takers more readily accessible to enterers, but within five years of the closing of the Granville land office (1763), additional entry takers were commissioned to assist the Provincial Secretary by taking the initial entry and forwarding it to him. The Provincial Secretary then presented the entry at the Court of Claims. (The ordinary steps of issuing a warrant to the surveyor authorizing him to lay off the land, his return to the Provincial Secretary of a plat map of the tract of land, and the issuance of a patent out of the Provincial Secretary's office under the signature of the Governor and the great seal of North Carolina all remained in force and were not altered.)

Probably the major factors influencing the addition of more entry takers in the Crown land office were the growth of the population in the southern half of the province, the expansion of the western frontier by Cherokee Indian land cessions in 1768, and the increase in the Crown's land office business due to the unavailability of grants through Lord Granville's land office after his death in 1763. By 1768, the year of the Cherokee cessions which led to the formation of Tryon County and the opening of the Catawba, Pacolet, and Tyger river lands, the Crown's land office divided the southern half of the province into three geographical districts (Western, Northern, and Southern) and appointed sub-entry takers. The Western district initially included Mecklenburg and Tryon counties, and Martin Phifer was the entry taker; by 1773 John Kirconnel was made entry taker for Tryon County, where there was a booming land office business. The Northern district included Craven, Dobbs, Carteret, Hyde, and Beaufort counties and that portion of Johnston County that lay below the Granville line; Christopher Neale was entry taker in 1768, and by 1773 he had been succeeded by Peter Johnson (at which time Onslow County was added to the district). The Southern district remained the responsibility of the Provincial Secretary and included the counties of Duplin, New Hanover, Brunswick, Bladen, Cumberland, and Anson; initially Onslow County fell into this district. By 1773 the land office business in Anson had become so brisk that James Cotten was commissioned entry taker for that county. This final appointment put individual entry takers in the three western counties of Anson, Mecklenburg, and Tryon, and in those appointments lies a useful hint concerning the growing density of the frontier population on the eve of the American Revolution. The greater part of this growth can probably be dated from the Cherokee Indian cession of 1768, under which the Indians surrendered title to land lying west of the Catawba River and east of the foothills of the Appalachian Mountains. (It was in this area that Tryon County was formed.)

The southern line of Tryon County was meant to be the North Carolina-South Carolina boundary. This, however, had never been surveyed. When it was surveyed in 1772, North Carolina agreed to a line that placed the southern strip of Tryon County and much of the Pacolet and Tyger river lands in South Carolina. Consequently, a large number of patents abstracted in this volume represent the instrument from which devolve a very large number of present-day South Carolina land titles.

It is not known to what extent the closing of the Crown's land office motivated North Carolinians to join in the rebellion that was the American Revolution, but it certainly must have been one of the moving forces. By order of the King in Council dated 7 April 1773, Governor Josiah Martin was ordered to close the land office. Accordingly, the land office closed in North Carolina on 28 June 1773, when the order was received and read to the council of state. Although the Court of Claims continued to sit, and although patents based on old entries, warrants, and surveys continued to ripen and were issued as late as 25 July 1774, applications for new entries and warrants were denied. Rumor spread through the province that it was the Crown's intention to secure an Act of Parliament that would vacate all American titles to land by annulling former patents, thereby causing all titles to land to revert to the Crown. Governor Martin issued a proclamation to suppress this rumor. He even went so far as to hold another Court of Claims in February 1775 in which 74 petitions for patents were accepted. It was too late. The Crown land office had closed forever. When the land office reopened in 1778, it opened as the State land office under authority of a sovereign people who had assumed title in themselves to all vacant lands within their charted boundaries.

The question occasionally arises as to whether or not North Carolina emulated South Carolina after the American Revolution by requiring citizens to present memorials setting forth their land titles. North Carolina did not do this. It accepted the fact that natural title to vacant land vested originally in the chartered proprietor or sovereign power, whether the Lords Proprietors of Carolina or the kings of Great Britain. It merely held that in 1775 title to all vacant lands within its boundaries had demised on the new state upon the cessation of the king's sovereignty within those boundaries. North Carolina allowed no question to shake earlier titles; she held her citizens secure in their lands.

In the preparation of this volume, as in her volumes of abstracts for the years from 1663 through 1729 and from 1735 through 1764, the compiler has consulted (and where necessary, conflated) the patent books in the office of the Secretary of State in Raleigh, the Auditor General's record of patents in the British Public Record Office in London, the Provincial Auditor's records of patents in the North Carolina State Archives and the Secretary of State's office in Raleigh, and the records of the colonial Court of Claims in the North Carolina State Archives. (The minutes of the closing years of the Court of Claims, from 1772 through 1775, are not with their fellows in the Archives but are in the Southern Historical Collection at the University of North Carolina Library in Chapel Hill, where they have been assigned the collection number of 2145.)

Researchers who wish to obtain copies of the original abstracts of patents or copies of the warrants and plats for them should address their inquiries to the Land Grant Office, New Legislative Office Building — Room 302, 300 North Salisbury Street, Raleigh, North Carolina 27611.

Perhaps writers of forewords should not praise the books they intend to introduce. But to say that this volume is another milestone in opening to researchers the single most important group of records in North Carolina is no more than to acknowledge what is a self-evident truth. And to say that Margaret Hofmann has placed the world of researchers irretrievably in her debt is mere understatement.

INTRODUCTION

The purpose of this index is to provide a source of personal names of individuals who lived in and around Richmond County, Georgia, from 1786 through 1799. Records from the following Georgia counties are included: Columbia, Screven, Burke, Hancock, Washington, Wilkes, Glascock, Greene, Chatham, and Elbert. Reports from Edgefield District, South Carolina also appear, as well as items from Charleston. Every name in the paper is not indexed, but an attempt has been made to note those instances where an item places an individual in a particular place at a particular time. Thus, advertisements, tax lists, grand jury findings, notices of administration, executor's sales, local news items, deaths, marriages, and many other types of events are covered. Items dealing with Georgia and South Carolina are indexed in almost all cases; those articles covering news of foreign or national scope are not.

There are five event types used in this index:

SAL	Executor's sale
ADM	Notice of administration or other document relating to probate of an estate.
OBI	Obituary (usually in the form of a death notice)
MAR	Marriage
OTH	Other

The index is arranged alphabetically by personal name. If there is more than one entry for a given individual, then the arrangement is chronological for each name. If a spouse's name is indicated, it is listed in the second column. Following event type, the date of the event is shown. For a marriage or death, this will be the date of the occurrence. For other event types, this will be the date of the notice, or if the notice is undated, the date of the paper cited. The last four entries provide the complete citation to the newspaper. The pages are unnumbered in the Chronicle itself, so these numbers are assigned in sequential order, assuming the masthead page to be number 1. The name of the paper is always indicated as, "CR", for Chronicle, even though some of the very early entries may have been in the Georgia State Gazette or Independent Register. Since the Augusta Chronicle purchased the Gazette in April, 1789, the assumption is made that they are all the same paper. From April 11, 1789 through April, 1806, the paper is officially entitled, The Augusta Chronicle and Gazette of the State.

Those names which are followed by an asterisk (*) indicate that the individual was a slave. Since the last name of these persons is not known, the name of the slaveowner has been chosen as a surname in the hope that researchers investigating Black genealogy may be able to trace families by using this as a guide. Free Blacks are included in the index without notation.

This volume covers October, 1786 through December, 1799.

Microfilm copies of the newspapers themselves are available for purchase from University of Georgia Libraries, Georgia Newspaper Project, Athens, GA 30602. Several libraries in the State of Georgia also own copies of these early papers.

WILLIAM NATHANIEL POOLE FAMILY OF MAYODAN

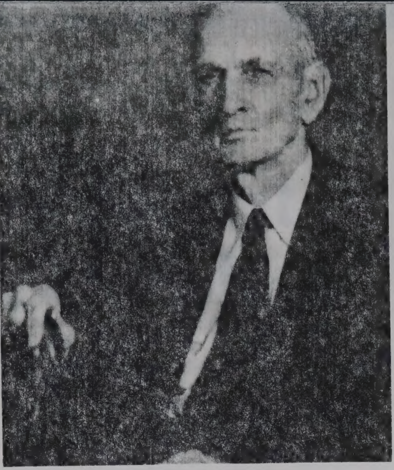
It is a happy privilege to report information concerning my father-in-law, William Nathaniel Poole, who spent his entire life in Rockingham County.

Born near "Baughn Mountain", Mayodan, Jan. 16, 1864, and died Jan. 15, 1953, his parents were William Clarence 1825-1897, (who migrated from Person Co. to Rockingham) and Eliza Jane Pratt 1834-1897. There were six children: William Nathaniel of Mayodan; Thomas Phillip of Stoneville and father of Disc Jockey Bob Poole of "Poole's Paradise"; Ernest of Forth Worth, Texas; John of Brownsville, Texas; Fannie of Mayodan, and Kettie of Ridgeway, Va. Heirlooms from this family in possession of a grandson today consist of a Seth Thomas grandfather clock purchased from Dr. Samuel Smith in 1790, and a handmade Valentine to his wife in 1852.

In his early years, William engaged in farming, contracting, enbalming, painting, and building jobs, the erection of the railroad trestle over the Mayo River, and in 1909 took over as general manager of the Mayo Mills store at Avalon where he stayed until 1912 after the mill burned. That year he joined B.R. Martin in the mercantile business in Mayodan. Later he purchased Mr. Martin's interest when he moved to Stuart, Va. Items for sale included dry goods, caskets, (in the basement) groceries, and finally furniture only.

Always a staunch Democrat and Baptist, he served as precinct chairman for 25 years; he was a charter member of Dan Valley Baptist Church and served many years as treasurer. As a member of the Mayodan School Board, he used to tell prospective teachers, "If you're a Democrat and a Baptist, you're O.K." He was also a member of the Odd Fellows.

William married Eliza Elizabeth Martin Feb. 5, 1890. She died April 21, 1951, at 80 years old. They had 11 children: Florence Evelyn, Brooxie M., William Clarence, Stella Gray, Howard Raymond, Walter Rawley, Guy Thomas, Fred Pratt, Clayton Irvin, Jerry Leonard, and Sarah Elizabeth.



William Nathaniel Poole.

Mrs. Poole was first a Baptist, then a Christian, then a Moravian. Here she was a faithful member, making and selling aprons and covering buttons for her "church money" even after both legs were amputated above the knees due to diabetes.

In 1934, son Fred Pratt Sr., (born on the farm in Dan Valley, March 28, 1904) joined his father in the store operation. He had attended Roanoke College, Roanoke, Va., until 1929, then traveled five years for Classroom Teacher Book Co. of Chicago before returning to Mayodan as co-owner and manager of Poole Furniture Co. That year, his life-long friend Rob Grogan joined him in publishing The Mayodan News a few months for fun. Once he advised his friend, Ben Archer, to settle in Mayodan saying, "If you count your dollars and cents you can live in Mayodan better than any place in the world."

He was a charter member and president of the Mayodan Rotary Club, president of the Merchants Association, chairman of the school board, and active member of the Moravian Church.

On August 8, 1941, he married Martha Carolyn Melton, daughter of a Methodist minister and teacher at Stoneville School. They had five children: Martha Jane, Mary Lou, Fred Pratt, Jr., Susan Elizabeth, and James Leonard. In 1975, Fred, Jr., joined his father in operating the store after graduating from UNC-Chapel Hill. Fred, Sr., died of cancer Nov. 18, 1979. In March of 1982, a celebration was held to observe the 70th anniversary of the business in the same location. In January 1983, the store was closed.

WILLIAM H. AND ELVA PILKINGTON

In 1774 property was registered in Johnston ounty to Richard Pilkington. He was granted 00 acres of land north of the Neuse River. He as also the first Pilkington listed in a Johnton County Census, in 1790.

On Feb. 8, 1805, William Pilkington registered 50 acres of land received by a grant om the State of North Carolina at the rate of 0 shillings per 100 acres. This land was meaured from a huckleberry bush to Moccasin wan.

The 1800 Census of Johnston County lists ne families of Richard Jr. and William Pilkingon. In 1810 the families of Richard (probably r.) and John Pilkington were listed. In 1820 nd in 1830 the Richard Pilkington family was sted. In 1840 the Hardy Pilkington family was sted.

In 1850 the William H. Pilkington family was in Selma Township. From this family a number of documents verify a line of direct decendants up to 1983. This line is as follows: William H. Pilkington (b. between 1814 and 1820) and wife Elva Pilkington (b. between 1815 and 1818), Polly Ann Pilkington Edwards (b. between 1841 and 1843 d. 1919) and husband Larkin H. Edwards (b. between 1827 and 1837 d. 1916), Major W. Edwards (b. Oct. 15, 1874 d. Sept. 4, 1960) and wife Della Eason Edwards (b. June 29, 1881 d. Mar. 15, 1953), Bessie Edwards Bryant (b. July 29, 1911) and husband George M. Bryant (b. Aug. 13, 1911 d. May 24, 1971), and Margie Bryant Olsen (b. Nov. 22, 1941) and husband Paul A. Olsen (b. Sept. 8, 1936)

William H. Pilkington was listed as carpenter in the 1850 Census, a day laborer in 1860, and a farmer in 1870. William and Elva (sometimes spelled Elvy or Elvie) had eight children: Polly Ann (b. 26 May 1842), Major (b. 1844 or 1845), Green (b. 1846 or 1847), Nancy P. Evans (b. between 1853 and 1855), Caleb who was called Richard or Dick (b. 1858), Bettie P. Stafford (b. 1858), and Joseph (b. 1861).

No further mention is made of Major after he was listed in the 1860 Census as 16 years old. He was possibly killed during the War Between the States. All the other children of William and Elva were listed in a document concerning the division of a Pilkington Estate.

William H. Pilkington is listed in the Register of Deeds Office of Johnston County as having filed acquirements of several lots and tracts of land. On Oct. 23, 1856 he bought a tract of land known as the "Pilkington Land" from Thomas Edwards who had bought it from W.S. Ballenger.This was 102½ acres for $230.62½ in four yearly payments of $57.66 with interest from date on the full amount. This was filed by deed in 1867. In 1873 he filed by deed 92¼ acres from C. Radford, and in 1875 another eight acres from Willie Edwards.

In 1886 Polly Ann Pilkington, probably Wm. H. Pilkington's daughter using her maiden name, acquired 24 acres from Jessee Stanley. In 1891 she acquired 38 acres in Selma Township from M.A. Hood.

Much of the Pilkington land is located between Smithfield and Selma along State Road 1923, later named Booker Dairy Road. Several of William H. Pilkington's descendants still own part of the Pilkington Land. Clifton H. Pilkington and his wife Iola Eason Pilkington and their daughters, Margaret Pilkington and Shirley P. Sullivan, have homes on part of the Caleb Richard Pilkington Estate (Clifton's grandfather). Bessie E. Bryant still lives on part of the land her father, Major Edwards, inherited from his parents Polly P. and Larkin Edwards. Bessie's daughters and son-in-law, Lois B. McLemore and Margie B. and Paul A. Olsen, now own the house and about four acres of land at the curve of Booker Dairy Road, east of Eden Woods.

THE JAMES HARDY POOL HOUSE AND FAMILY

On May 16, 1854, James Hardy Pool (1826 — 1889) married Adelia Ann Draughon (1837 — 1862), of Sampson County. He brought her to live on the 250 acres that he had recently purchased; it is now known as the Tom G. Allen crossroads. On this farm he built a house, a kitchen, and several other buildings. The house very much resembles the one that his brother, John, built on Galilee Road near the Neuse River. The house would be classified as a Coastal Plain Greek Revival style. The house was very high off the ground with a porch across the front. Inside there was a large central hall that extended from the front to the back of the house. There were four big rooms; the front two had fireplaces. The front left one was used as the living room and the other three bedrooms.

The kitchen was built separate from the house. It was in the back left-hand side of the yard. There were two rooms, a kitchen and a dining room. The kitchen had a fireplace in it. This was used as the kitchen until about the late 1870's when a new one was built, almost identical. This new one was built on to the back of the big house. There was two steps to step down and you would be on the porch of the new kitchen. It had two rooms along with a pantry. In 1855-1856, the old kitchen was rented out as a bunkhouse to railroad laborers when the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad Company built its tracks through the Pool farm.

There were several other buildings built that have either fallen down or been torn down. There are two known buildings that still exist, a log mule stable and a plank corn crib. Also it should be known that the newest kitchen is still standing and is in the process of being restored by one of James' great-great grandsons. The oldest kitchen has been rebuilt after falling down during a storm. The big house was torn down in 1940's.

This house brings back alot of memories and roots for a lot of people. This house has sheltered at least three generations of people, along with several boarders, mostly teachers from Parker School.

After James and Adelia married, they had two sons and three daughters. They were: James Thomas (1855 — 1932), Robert Hardy (1856 — 1928), Laura (1858 — 1924), Martha Ann "Matt' (1859-1940), and Nancy Nan (1862 — 1917).

After "Matt" married William Riley Allen (1855 — 1914) in 1875, he went to live with her and her parents. They had four sons and three daughters. They were: Delia (1876 — 1902), Robert Henry (1878 — 1932), Minnie Elizabeth (1884 — 1949), Kitty Florence (1888 — 1966), Willie (1895 — 1916), James Lloyd (1896 — 1933), and Riley Floyd (1901 —).

After Floyd married Myrtie Bass (1901 —), of Bentonville, in 1924, she went to live with him and his parents in the Pool house.

Not only were these children raised in the Pool house, but also some of their own chil! dren. As "Matt" watched her children move away from home with their new families, she would say, "I never lived in but one house."

JOHN W. POOL

The Pool families of Johnston County have been here since ca 1746 when the county was first formed. They settled along the south side of the Neuse River, on both sides of Swift Creek, Middle Creek, and one boundary even names Black Creek. These lands are near to what was called Green's Path, a much traveled trail from the northeastern counties to Fayetteville and the South Carolina territory. They possibly came from the area of Pasquotank, Perquimans and Chowan counties.

The earliest Pools in Johnston County were William and George Pool, probably brothers. George settled west of Smithfield, in the Clayton area of Johnston Co., and William settled near Smithfield. Our concern is the William Pool line.

William Pool died in Johnston County ca 1763, leaving a will naming wife Sarah, and children John, Stephen, Samuel, Sarah, Winifred and Penelope Pool. Mother Sarah was named guardian for the children in Jan. 1764. William was, no doubt, a young man when he died, leaving so many small children. There may be generations between William and Hardy Pool, but our interest is that of Hardy.

Hardy Pool was born before 1800 as he married on the 12 Oct. 1816 Nancy Thorp. Hardy died some time before the 1850 census was taken, as Nancy is the head of her household with her four children. According to these records her birth would have been about 1788; she gave her age as 62. They lived on a portion of the plantation on the Neuse River that had belonged to William Pool. Deeds and land records that are still in the family give proof of this. They raised the usual crops of corn, grain, and food stuff for the family. They possibly had a grist mill on one of the creeks and a still for the purpose of making their own spirits, as a still was a valuable piece of personal property in those days before legal control. They possibly are buried in the family cemetery that is still on the plantation. There are no stones visible, but they were possibly wooden ones and have given over to the elements. The house that was built by the Pool family in the early 1800's was moved at some time from near the river to the present site on Galilee Road. There may be several generations of Pools buried here.

By the time that John Hardy Pool died, his children were grown. James Hardy Pool b. 1826 d. 1882 left his father's farm on the Galilee Road and went to settle on his own farm southwest of Four Oaks. He sold his interest in his father's estate, 615 ac., to his brother John W. Perrin and, Thomas Pool for

$850.00 James Hardy Pool md. Ardelia

Draughon who died ca. 1862. He later married Julia ?

Mary Pool b. ca. 1820 married John Daniel. She sold her share of her father's estate to John W. Pool in 1859 for $1155.00. This also included her share of her deceased brother Thomas Pool's estate. Thomas J. Pool was born ca 1818 and died before 1858. Perrin Pool was possibly the youngest of the children and nothing is known about him. He possibly died before 1850 as he is not listed with mother Nancy. Nancy Pool made her will in 1862 and died in 1864.

John W. Pool was born 1823 and died ca Jan. 1884. He married 26 Oct. 1859 to Margaret Ann Peacock, b. ca 1837 and died in 1914. She was the eldest daughter of William and Nancy Robinson Peacock of the Peacock's Cross Roads area of Johnston Co. She was the oldest of 12 children. She lived on the farm until her death and is undoubtedly buried beside John W. Pool in the family cemetery. The cemetery is adjoining the old Pool house, which was possibly built after 1800 and moved from the river ca 1840. The oldest part of the house was probably built by Hardy Pool and later additions were made by John W. Pool. About 1850 a large addition was made to the left end of the original house. Downstairs there are four large rooms with a central hall, and upstairs there are two large rooms with sloping ceilings.

Children of John W. Pool and Margaret Ann Peacock Pool were: Rebecca Pool b. ca 1861 d. 1943, never married. She lived at home with her parents, and after the death of John W. she stayed on with her mother on the farm. 2. Ora V. Pool b. ca 1863 d. 5 Dec. 1941 at age 79. Miss Ora moved to Smithfield and opened a Hat Shop or Millinery Shoppe along Market Street, about where Dorman's is today. She was quite a lady and many around still remember her today. 3. John W. Pool b. 1865 and died 1929. John never married and stayed at home and farmed. 4. George T. Pool b. 1869 and died 1921. He never married. George came to Smithfield and operated a warehouse along with his brother-in-law James Moore. This was the Center Brick Warehouse that was located where the Federal Building is now. Rebecca, Ora, John and George T. Pool are all buried in the Riverside Cemetery in Smithfield.

5. Cornelia Pool b. ca 1859 md. Will Woodall as his second wife. He owned and operated a dry goods store near the Savings and Loan on Market Street. Cornelia died 15 Aug. 1942 and is buried at Riverside Cem.

6. Mary V. Pool b. ca 1866 d. 1958 md. James Moore s/o Elijah and Susan Johnson Moore Sr. of Fayetteville. Elijah Moore was a banker and merchant in Fayetteville. John and Mary stayed on the farm for a while and had several children born there. They moved to Smithfield ca 1900 and he operated a grocery store on Market St. Later he went into business with his brother-in-law, George T. Pool and they operated the Center Brick Warehouse here. They built a brick home on the corner of Fourth and Church streets in 1926. Their children were: Mae Robinson Moore who married Dr. Thomas Latham Bray; they live in Plymouth. They have a daughter, Mary Elizabeth and a son, Joseph; James Moore died as a child; Margaret Susan Moore b. 1899 md. Dr. John H. Bonner, M.D. of Aurora. They live in Elizabeth City and have one daughter, Margaret M. Bonner, who married C.S. Smith and lives in Virginia; William Lee Moore married Kathleen Gower of Clayton and they had five children, Ann, W.L., Jr., Betty, Mary and Nancy; Richard Jennings Moore married Josie Susman and they had two daughters, Barbara and Deanne. Josie worked the public library in Smithfield some years before her death.

Many of the old family pieces of furniture and documents that belonged to the early Pools, and those of Hardy and John W. are in the possession of a descendant and are most prized. The four poster bed and the table used by Margaret Ann Pool are priceless pieces, kept by descendants.

POWELL FAMILY

Isaac Powell, the grand-ancestor of an extensive family, had three sons and one daughter, viz; Needham, Isaac, and Kedar, sons, and Bershaba, a daughter. Needham had issue, the extent unknown.

Isaac, whom I have often seen with his family composed of sons and daughters who operated here, — now there is scarcely a trace of the family in this section of the country.

Bershaba, the daughter, married here a Mr. Wm. Farmer (who was drowned in Neuse River) and had two sons and one daughter and must have lived to a great age, and died about the year 1837, when I was about 25 years of age. Now there are very few of the descendants of the family to be found in this section of the country of N.C.

Kedar Powell and wife Hester Ingram (sister of Joseph Ingram), had two sons and three daughters, viz: Adin and William, sons, Zelphia, Susanna, and Winney, daughters.

Zilphia married Joseph King of Cumberland Co., N.C. and moved to Twiggs Co. Ga. I think.

Susanna married Mr. Benjamin Hadley and they had one son named Benjamin. All of these I have seen at the home of my father, after which time they went to Georgia. And I have no doubt but that my aunt died of consumption at the home of her brother, William Powell, and her son left and went off and was heard from no more thereafter. Winney, youngest daughter, died early without issue.

William Powell sold his possessions here to my father and, I think, went to Georgia about the year 1807 where I think he died about the year 1836. (His wife was Sara Bingham and of Pierce.)

Adin Powell and wife, Lueaya Guy raised three children, two sons and one daughter Ashley Guy, Upton, and Sophia. Adin and second wife, Polly, a widow of Colonel John Deceased among my relatives are all of my grandparents; my brothers, James T. Hawkins and Booker T. Hawkins; and my sister, Thelma Hawkins Braxton. James was born July 22, 1907 and died February 27, 1977. Booker was born February 3, 1916 and killed while on military duty in Vietnam June 17, 1970. Thelma was born November 28, 1913 and died April 8, 1938 while working with the Soldiers Allotment Bureau in Washington, D.C. and New Jersey.

A humanitarian, Christian and leader, my brother James was affiliated with numerous political, social, civic, charitable, and religious organizations and activities in Durham and the state. He was an active member, leader, and supporter of White Rock Baptist Church and its auxiliaries from an early age until his death, a member of the Republican Party for 40 years, president of the Durham Taxicab Association for more than 15 years, president and owner of the Hillside Taxicab Company, a life member of the Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, a member of the North Carolina Central Board of Trustees, a graduate of North Carolina Central University from which he received the Bachelor of Science degree and completed the residential requirements for a master's degree, a member of the Boards of Directors of Operation Breakthrough and the Durham County Department of Social Services, member of the Durham Chamber of Commerce, the National Business Business League, the Durham Business and Professional Chain, a life member of the NAACP, an honorary 33rd degree Mason, a licensed contractor and real estate owner, a stockholder in the Mechanics and Farmers Bank and the Mutual Savings and Loan Association.

Although I was reared in Wake County, I have had a mobile life from 1921. I have lived in Roanoke Rapids, and Manson, North Carolina, and Norfolk, Virginia, but Durham has been my principal residence since 1921. I graduated from Hillside High School in 1928, from North Carolina Central University with a Bachelor of Arts degree in 1932, and from Teachers College, Columbia University in 1944. After teaching in Horton High School for two years, I was employed by the Durham City Schools and remained until I retired in 1971.

I still maintain my "roots" in Wake County. I am still a member of the United Church of Christ of Cary, a Wake County town. Like my grandmother, Nannie Jones Hawkins, who was born and reared in Wake County, I am an ardent lover of flowers; therefore, I have been a member of the Azalea Garden Club for 30 years or more. Gardening and growing flowers are still among my avocations.

Like my brother, James, I have been affiliated with a myriad of organizations and activities for the improvement of humanity and our community and state. In addition to making teaching my career for approximately 40 years, I have and still participate in many community, state, and national activities and organizations. Among these are the Alpha Kappa Durham County Democratic Women, the NAACP, the Girls Scouts of America, the American Legion Auxiliary, the Society for Human Dignity, the Mental Health Association, the Civil Liberties Union, Common Cause, and Voters Alliance. I am an active and strong supporter for passing the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) and other civil rights for all people.

THE BAGWELL-POOL FAMILY

Along present-day Rock Quarry Road near Ebenezer Methodist Church is an old cemetery dating back to the past century. In still-handsome wrought-iron workings, the name Bagwell can be seen above the metal arch of the gate.

The name Bagwell goes back many years in Wake Co. and can be found in the earliest census of the state. Most Bagwells have been farmers although some have been storekeepers. In the 1891 Raleigh City Directory, there are six Bagwell households listed in the section giving "Farmers and Owners of Land in St. Mary's Township": Mrs. Sallie Bagwell of the Garner area, A.J. Bagwell, N.B. Bagwell, Sr., J.J. Bagwell, G.R. Bagwell, and H.B. Bagwell.

The last of these was listed as owning 324 acres of land then, valued at $2,450. This was the fourth largest plantation in the township, next to that of Troy Baucom with 676 acres; Calvin Pool with 414, and Hardy Pool, Sr., with 401 acres.

One of the Bagwells who "came to town" was Needham W. Bagwell who in 1901 was listed in the Raleigh Directory as living at 728 N. Blount Street but was working with his son-in-law Sion R. Pool in operating a grocery business at 124 E. Martin St. (The store is still standing today).

Needham Bagwell's 20-year-old daughter Mary Elizabeth had married Sion R. Pool on Dec. 5, 1878 in the Bagwell home with Thomas Johns, J.P., officiating. Sion was born Jan. 12, 1854, the eldest son of landowner Calvin Pool (treated elsewhere in this book) by Pool's second wife, Catherine Green. Calvin had one older son Paschal by his first wife, Sally Mariah Smith.

Sion R. Pool was a devoted, kind gentleman who farmed for awhile in the Mt. Moriah Church area but apparently went into retail grocery business at the turn of the century. Mary Bagwell Pool was an attractive young woman who as a girl loved to fish the creeks and streams of St. Mary's Township — such as Whiteoak, Little River, and Rocky Branch.

However, she found little time to fish once the family moved to Raleigh — where she ran a successful boarding house for many years . . . at a different location almost every year!

In 1900 her youngest child Margie was born and knew only city life. While Sion Pool was farming in the southeastern part of the county, Mary had borne him nine children: Hattie Lee (1880-1917) who married Angus Archie McDonald and had three children: Alice (1883-ca. 1915) who married Sam Hodges and had a daughter, Myrtle; Grover Cleveland Pool (1887-1961) who was born deaf but made a success in the printing profession and married Fannie Elizabeth Norris who bore him three children; Exter Pool (1889-1941) who was crippled but who ran a wood yard on Martin St. in Raleigh; Eugene who died as an infant; Melvin who died as a child ca. 1896; Carrie who died as a child also; Ila Kathryn, born in 1892, who became a competent pianist and married William C. Holder of Rock Quarry Road in 1913. (Ila played often as accompanist for silent films at the old Grand Theatre and others

Winston-Salem N.C. F262 W2 H47 1983

Dec. 12, 1900, who married Famous Mark Mann in 1922 and had four children. As stated, she grew up in Raleigh in a series of boarding houses run by her mother. The Pools' cousin, novelist Bernice Kelly Harris, often referred in her books to the "city cousins" whose boarding house the country cousins used to visit on Saturdays to eat dinner when they came to town to sell produce at the old city market.

These country folk of course brought gifts of watermelons, beans, peas, cabbages, etc., to the Sion Pool family, but it is easy to imagine Mary Bagwell Pool's frustration when she was often beset and "put upon" by so many relatives at the boarding house table, including the Paschal Pools, the Hezekiah Pools, the Kellys, the Stallings family, the Joseph Pools, the Honeycutts, and even the family of rich brother Icana Pool who had his own railroad siding built near his farm to load cantaloupes and other produce (there is still a section of the township near Mt. Moriah Church which some old-timers refer to as Poole's Siding. Icana put an extra "e" into the name!)

Sion Pool lived where his wife Mary operated boarding houses at 120 E. Hargett Street, 506 S. Salisbury St., 226 E. Davie St., 514 Hillsboro St. (near the railroad overpass), and at 930 S. Blount St.

When Sion Pool died in 1912, Mary Bagwell Pool moved back to the country to one of the Bagwell farms located on Loop Road, off Rock Quarry Road at Battle Bridge Road and the entrance to Ebenezer Church. There Mary died on July 1, 1943, leaving a large number of descendants in Raleigh, Garner, Durham; Atlanta; Portsmouth, Richmond and Roanoke, Va.; Bethesda, Md.; Warrenburg, Mo.; Mechanicsburg, Pa., and elsewhere. One great-grandson, Sandy Duncan, is active in useful work for the deaf and handicapped in Wesleyville, Pa., while another great-grandson, Bob G. Wrenn, is an actor/dancer/singer in New York City. Other descendants have been successful in school and college administration, in government work, theatre work, horticulture, and the law. Great-grandson William Christopher Morgan is an often-promoted officer of Raleigh's police department.

Margie Pool Mann, youngest child of Mary Bagwell Pool, is still living as is her sister Ila (mentioned previously) . . . the only survivors of a brood of nine. She makes her home at the Garner Rest Home on Aversboro Road, Garner.

POOL

The name Pool (or Poole) has long been a familiar one in Wake County. At one time Calvin Pool of St. Mary's Township owned more land than anyone in that area.

Calvin Pool, b. Apr. 22, 1822, d. in 1908 on his home place near old Mt. Moriah Baptist Church in said township, leaving a progeny which has multiplied and dispersed all over North Carolina and most of the United States. Of his 374 living descendants, there are successful lawyers, realtors, farmers, nurses, educators, newsmen, entertainers, merchants and preachers honoring a Pool (Poole) as a parent.

The first evidence of a Pool migrating to what is now Wake Co. from lower Virginia is to be found in the N.C. Archives' land grants records in Raleigh. On August 4, 1741, Governor Gabriel Johnston granted a George Pool a total of 100 acres, in the name of King George II, on the north side of the Neuse River in what was then Craven Co. (Johnston and Wake counties not yet having been created.)

In 1742 more lands were granted to this Pool and others bearing the name. But in the 1760s, George Pool sold his original holdings north of the Neuse and was then granted land south of the river "on both sides of the Great Branch of Walnut Creek," this property then being in Johnston County, which by 1746 had been created from Craven Co. After Wake Co. was created, in turn, from Johnston in 1771, George Pool found that his lands were then in this new county of Wake. He died the next year, leaving a will dated Nov. 3, 1772 which lists a wife Mary (no maiden name known) and eight children: Lewis Pool was the eldest and heir to the most of the original plantation (and was father of the famous William R. Poole, longtime county official and wealthy property owner . . . as well as the central figure in the famous Poole Woods legends along what is now called Rock Quarry Road. Wm. R. Poole was also said to have been tortured by 'Yankees' in 1865 when Gen. Sherman's forces moved up from Goldsboro during the last days of the War Between the States. William R. never did reveal where he allegedly buried his family treasure, however.)

Other children of George Pool, according to his will, were: Hester, who m. a Mr. Stevens; Elizabeth; William; Hardy; John; George (Jr.), and Edee (Edith?) Pool. His oldest son Lewis (see above) and a subsequent in-law, Moses Powell, were listed among witnesses to his will. The third son, Hardy, was evidently the grandfather of the Calvin Pool of whom we write.

This Hardy Pool's will of 1813 lists as beneficiaries his wife Edith (no maiden name given), and sons William, Howard, George (III) and Hardy, Jr. His daughters were Charlotte, Betsy, Nancy and Polly. This last daughter married a Nat Dunn. The senior Hardy's son, William, received a legacy of 145 acres "beginning at Willie Jones' corner in James maple near Battle's Spring. This land was most likely east of the Big Branch land was most likely east of the Big Branch, still a landmark in Wake Co. (Evidently the Immigrant George Pool's lands "on Walnut Creek and on both sides of the Great Branch" had been left to the eldest son, the above-mentioned Lewis Pool who was the father of William R. Pool, Ransom Pool, Lewis Pool Jr., and Molsey . . . or Martha . . . Pool.)

The William Pool who was son of the elder Hardy Pool was married in 1806 to Aley Powell, daughter of Moses Powell and his wife Prudence of Wake Co. This William was Calvin Pool's father. He died intestate in 1834, according to the records in the N.C. Archives which show a distribution of his estate via William's brother George who was made guardian of the children still under age. These children included: Jonathan Poole, b. circa 1807 who mar. Polly Ellington; Anderson Pool, b. about 1809, who m. Elizabeth Beddingfield; another Lewis Pool, b. ca. 1812, who m. Mary Turner; Hardy Pool (III?), b. ca. 1814, who m. Mary Baucom in 1837; William ("Grinning Billy") Pool who m. first a Miss Perry, then a Mary Wilder, and third, Cornelia Turner in 1868; Albert Jackson Pool, b. 1818 and m. in 1846 to Sarah (Sallie) Baucom; Caroline Pool, the only daughter, was b. about 1821 and m. Caswell A. Smith in 1843. Calvin Pool, whom this article concerns, was apparently the youngest child of William and Aley Powell Pool.

Calvin Pool and Elizabeth Jones Pool circa 1888.

A religious man, Calvin Pool was 10 years old when Mt. Moriah Church (on old Hwy. 70) was founded in 1832. He was a self-taught student of the Bible and organized an early Bible study class. Later he became a deacon and was a respected leader in prayer service there the rest of his 86 years. In 1952, his children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren organized a family reunion at the church to dedicate a stained glass window there in honor of their ancestor. Inspired by granddaughter Ina Ferrell, a reunion has since become a May tradition at Mt. Moriah every two years.

Calvin Pool was m. three times and widowed twice. The third wife, Elizabeth (Bettie) Jones of Lenoir Co., outlived him and d. at the Raleigh home of a daughter, Addie Poole Ferrell, in 1912.

Calvin's first m. in 1841 (he was not yet 20) was to Sally Mariah Smith, daughter of Col. Samuel A. Smith and Sally Baucom, his wife, of Johnston and Wake counties. Mariah was sister to Caswell Smith who m. Calvin's only sister Caroline. This first wife, older than her husband, bore him but two children before her death ca. 1851: Emeline Pool who died in infancy, and Paschal Pool, who was b. in 1847. Paschal served at age 17 in the Confederate Junior Reserves (Co. D, 1st Regt.) which vainly attempted to halt Gen. Sherman's march through North Carolina to Raleigh after the Battle of Bentonville. Paschal later m. Henrietta Penny in 1870. She was the daughter of William Penny and wife Betsy Avery of nearby Johnston County.

Calvin's second m. was in 1852 to Catherine Green (1830-1861), daughter of Jesse and Clara Green of the Buffalo Creek area of Mark Creek Township in Wake County. She bore him five children: Sion Pool (1854-1912) who m. M[illegible] Bagwell and turned from farming in Wake to storekeeping in Raleigh; Hezekiah Pool (1855-1932) who m. first Betty Sturdivant in 1876, and later Lillie Ferrell in 1884, at which time he sold farms in Wake to be a hotel-keeper in Clayton; Christiana, b. 1857, who m. Robert Boone in 1876 and d. the same year; Rosannah (Rosie) Pool (1859-1920), who m. William (Bill) H. Kelly in 1886 and bore six children, including famous Wake Co. novelist Bernice Kelly Harris; Catherine (Katie) Pool (1861-1900) who m. in 1884 the Rev. Nicholas P. Stallings, an early Wake Forest College graduate and likewise a descendant from an early 18th century settler of Wake County.

Katie Pool's birth in 1861 brought on an illness and swift subsequent death of her mother, Catherine. Calvin Pool then came home that winter from service in the Confederate Army (Co. D, 31st Regt., N.C. State Troops) and was released from duty for disability due to a back injury. He was then almost 40 years old.

Calvin did not marry again until April 1, 1863, this third time to Elizabeth Jones, a Civil War refugee and daughter of Green Jones and wife Laney Tull of Lenior Co. Their five children were Joseph Franklin Pool (1864-1943) who m. Edie Jones in 1890 and whose pond was always used for Mt. Moriah baptizings; Icana Pool (1868-1919) who m. Edie's sister Adeline Jones in 1889 and who went on to prosper as a farmer and businessman in Wake; Alie Alliene (1868-1956) who m. gentle John W. Honeycutt in 1890; Addie (1870-1942) who married Everett Moses Ferrell in 1887 but who was widowed early and went back to the Calvin Pool home to raise two baby daughters; and Emma (1874-1972) who m. haberdasher James M. Wilder in 1910 and raised her only son to be a Baptist preacher. These offspring of Calvin Pool produced in Wake Co. over 460 descendants, of whom there are 374 still living useful lives!

BAYARD T. POOLE FAMILY

Bayard T. Poole was born March 16, 1880 in the family home off Forestville Road. His parents were Nathan Whitley Poole and Virginia Baker Upchurch Poole. He married Addie Phelps (b. 10-4-1897). He was a farmer on land inherited from his father which had been part of the extensive holdings of the Upchurch Family. He sold that farm and moved to one on Hodge Road in the Knightdale Community about one-half mile from Highway 64. The farmhouse burned in the 1950's and a new house was built on the site. That house is now occupied by their daughter, Virinia Hodge.

Bayard and Addie Poole had five children. The oldest was Jack Thurman Poole (b. 2-25-1915) who was my father and his story is written separately.

Magdalene Poole married James D. Basden (b. 10-15-1913 d. 1-21-1958). Virginia, who was called "sweet" married first Charlie H. Blake and had one child, Phillip Blake. Then Virginia married Festus Hodge. They had no children.

Jimmie T. Poole married Mina Benson and has been in the well drilling business in Wake County for many years. They had two children. Sandra married Al Wilson, Jr. and James Grady married first Pamela Williams and then Debra Privette.

Needham William "NW" married Maggie Peed and had four children. William Keith (b. 6-27-1958) was killed in an accident on Hodge Road while riding his bicycle. Margaret Ann married Ronald Parrott and the last two boys, Donnie Earl and Calvin are not married.

NW, Jimmie and their sons still operate well drilling businesses in the Knightdale area.

Bayard T. Poole, Jr. married Connie Margaret Williford (b. 11-29-1931 d. 1-27-1980). Their children are Ronnie, Jimmie T. who married Carolyn Massey and Peggy who married Paul Jones. Donnie Margaret is buried in the new Knightdale Cemetery.

Bayard T. Poole died February 7, 1962. Addie Phelps Poole died November 13, 1969. They and their grandchild, William Keith Poole are buried in the new Knightdale Cemetery.

Knightdale High School. He grew up on the family farm on Hodge Rd. where he helped with the farm work until he went to work driving an oil truck which he did for 15 years until he went into business for himself. In 1958, he opened a service station and grocery store at the corner of Milburnie Rd. and Highway 64 and operated there until 1965 when the highway was widened. He moved his business to the present location on Hodge Road. In 1968 he and his son added on to the building and opened Pools Garage.

Jack Thurman Poole married Eva Ruth Harris (b. 8-30-1921) in 1942. Her parents were Charlie A. Harris and Katie Vann Harris of Granville County. They had four children.

Charles McGee Poole was born Jan. 12, 1944. Charles married Janie Marie Henry who has two children by a former marriage — Melanie Renee Gibson and Katherine Kelly Gibson. Charles and Janie Marie have one son, Michael Adam born Dec. 27, 1979. They live on Hodge Road and are members of the Green Pines Baptist Church.

Jackie Thurman Poole was born Jan. 18, 1947. He married Barbara Pearce from Stem who had two children by a former marriage — Jeff and Ken Taylor. They have two children — Kelly Ruth (b. 10-16-1976) and Kerry Elizabeth (b. 11-22-1977).

Tommy Bayard Poole was born October 4, 1951. He married Donna Snead. They have one son Jason D. (b. 9-1-1977). He then married Lynn Hayworth and they have one child, Matthew J. (b. 3-22-1983).

Owen Ross Poole was born June 5, 1954. He married LuAnn Miller Norton who had two children by a former marriage — Scott Allen Norton and Ronald Eric Norton.

Tragedy struck the family on October 24, 1977. Jack and Eva Ruth Poole were on their way to the beach on a fishing trip when they were killed in an automobile accident in Clinton. They are buried in the new Knightdale Baptist Church Cemetery. Charles and Owen have continued to operate the family business on Hodge Road.

JOSEPH FRANKLIN POOL

Mount Moriah Community, on Highway 70, between Raleigh and Clayton is rich with memories of its past and its distinguished citizens. Joseph Franklin Pool is so identified with that community that one cannot think of one without the other.

He was born in that community of Wake County on February 9, 1864, son of Calvin Pool and Ann Elizabeth Margaret Jones Pool. (Betty) He was raised in a family of 10 children, five of them half-brothers and sisters.

Joseph Pool married Edith Elizabeth Jones, and they established their home on the farm he bought from his father and brothers. This farm had been in the Pool family for many generations.

To this union were born
four children; Dr. Franklin
K. Pool who became a professor at Wake Forest College and Furman University; Veola G. Pool, Robert Gaston Pool, a realtor and builder in Wake County, and Calvin Parker Pool who became a leading educator in North Carolina.

The well known Mount Moriah Baptist Church was started in 1832. The small chapel built then was used until the present building, which Joseph Pool helped to build. All of the carpenters who built the new building roomed and boarded at his house during the building. Holding almost every office in the church, he put most of his effort in Bible teaching, leading singing and work with the children. All of the baptizings of the church were held at the pond on his farm.

Bernice Kelly Harris, his neice and a famous North Carolina author best described the community feeling about him when she made a report at a family reunion years after his death.

> "Uncle Joe for his church and his Lord had the zeal of Old Testament Prophets, a good and righteous man, Sunday School superintendent, teacher, song leader. Always thoughtful of little children. In a day when children were supposed to be seen and not heard, Uncle Joe saw to it that they were heard too, in song at Sunday School. He frequently had us stand before the grown folks and sing:
> 'Hear the pennies dropping
> Listen while they fall
> Every one for Jesus
> He will get them all.'"
> She concluded: "We loved Uncle Joe for it."

Mount Moriah Community was noted for its high standards of education at a time when county or state financial aid for education was unheard of. Joseph Pool headed a community group which built and maintained the well remembered Mount Moriah Academy. All of the teachers who ever taught there found board and room at the Joseph Pool home. The Mount Moriah Academy teachers like Miss Nina Brown and Mr. Jack Case, and many others will be long remembered. All money used for the Academy was on a volunteer basis, but Joseph Pool and others never let it suffer for funds.

Joseph Franklin Poole.

The Pool farm was large, and produced for years money of cotton, corn and tobacco. Later Joseph Pool developed a large produce crop, which was carried to Raleigh by wagon to be sold. After some years he shipped carloads to the northern markets. These cars were loaded at the Pool Siding which was on his farm and carried by the Southern Railway.

Then, like now, a good community depended on three main things: religious activity, educational advantages and good business practices. Participation in all three made the lifestyle of Joseph Franklin Pool. He died May 23, 1943 and is buried in the Mount Moriah Cemetery.

ELLIOTT SWEENEY POOLE AND NANNIE LOU POOLE

Elliott Poole, son of Add and Icana Poole, was the most sought-after beau in the county. Like his brother Clifton, he was quite athletic, being the fastest runner in the community. But his running came to an end when he contacted the dreaded crippler of children, polio. He had plenty of girl friends, but he never married because he considered his crippled leg a handicap.

Elliott lived with his mother and became a successful real estate businessman, selling farm properties with Faucett Restate in Raleigh. His nieces and nephew adored him, as he was a gentle, generous "Santa Claus" to them. After his mother's death, he made his home with his brother Clifton until his death on May 11, 1951.

Nannie Lou, oldest child of Add + Icana was the belle of the community + leader of the young people, married a distant cousin

Swade E. Barbour of Clayton, farmer and merchant of the firm of J.G. Barbour and Sons, Inc. The marriage date was Dec. 10, 1919. They had one son, Swade, Jr., born April 4, 1923. He attended Darlington School for Boys in Rome, Ga., and U.N.C. at Chapel Hill, then served in the military in World War II. Swade Jr. married Joyce Talton, daughter of John T. Talton and Ruth Barnes Talton, of Clayton. Joyce is a descendant of Hardy Poole, brother of Calvin Poole, Nannie Lou's grandfather.

Nannie Lou died on June 1, 1975. She was survived by her son and daughter-in-law and four grandchildren, Swade Emmett Barbour III, born Nov. 2, 1950; Nancy Louise Barbour, born Aug. 31, 1953; and John Thomas Barbour, Born Aug. 17, 1958.

Clifton, fourth son of Add and Icana Poole, was a natural athlete, and played baseball in the Mt. Moriah Baptist Church yard as a youngster. He went to Wake Forest College and played both basketball and baseball on the varsity teams. He left there to become a professional baseball player with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

On Dec. 24, 1927, Clifton married Evelyn Kitchen, daughter of Sam and Eva Kitchin, of Scotland Neck. Evelyn, a graduate of Averett College, in Danville, Va., was teaching at Mt. Auburn school, near Mt. Moriah, when she and Clifton met. They settled a part of the Icana Poole farm. Clifton later became a farmer and a realtor, working first with his brother Elliott, then with his own real estate business, after Elliott's death.

Clifton and Evelyn had one child, Peggy Jeanne Poole, born July 14, 1930 in the Poole home. Peggy graduated from Meredity College, where she was 1952 May Queen. She made her debut two years earlier at the state ball in Raleigh.

Peggy married Charles Gibson Buie, Jr. of Biscoe, on June 14, 1952. They have four children: Charles Gibson Buie, Jr. born Mar. 4, 1954, now living in Raleigh; Evelyn Buie, born June 8, 1955; Clifton Buie, born March 11, 1958; and Frank Thomas Buie, born Mar. 27, 1961.

Clifton and Evelyn were actively involved in the Mt. Moriah Baptist Church. Clifton died on Dec. 26, 1978. Evelyn still lives on the old home place in the Mt. Moriah neighborhood.

Jones, daughter of Green Jones and Laney Tull of Lenoir County and a refugee from the Yankee invasion, via New Bern, was Icana "Cana" Poole, born of Feb. 20, 1866. He grew up as a normal country boy near Mt. Moriah Baptist Church and the old Poole Road, now U.S. 70 and Rock Quarry Road.

On Dec. 1, 1889, Cana married Adeline "Add" Corinna Jones, born Feb. 20. 1866, to Samantha Johnson and Gaston Jones, who lived just across White Oak Branch, five miles away. She was a sister of Edie Jones, who married Icana's brother Joe; a twin sister Eveline "Ev," who married John Sturdivant, and a sister of Emily Jones, who married Haywood Bryant. All were members of Mt. Moriah Church and were married there, leaving the church in rude road carts.

Cana soon bought a few acres of land in the neighborhood, and he and Add started on their life's journey together, farming and raising a family. They had six children: first, twin daughters who died in infancy fron "summer complaint," Elliott Sweney Poole, born Jan. 14, 1892; Frances Belle Poole, born Sept. 20, 1893; Nannie Lou Poole, born May 14, 1896; and Bonnie Clifton Poole, born June 4, 1902. As their family grew, they added rooms to their house, including two large bathrooms, with tubs, lavatories and commodes. But water was carried in from the well in the yard. (In the 1940s, Nannie Lou wanted to have water piped in for her mother, but Add wouldn't have it, continuing to draw water from the well the using the outdoor privy in good weather.)

Cana was progressive, both as a farmer and as a community leader. His special interests were home, church, and school. He was an exceptional farmer, a cotton seed specialist, and an astute businessman, successful in the stock market. He was responsible for getting a Southern Railroad spur, known as "Poole's Siding," at the farm, opening up a market to take care of local produce, mostly watermellons (he developed a special brand, sold on the state level), cantaloupes and Irish potatoes. To carry on this business, it was necessary to have a telephone, the first to be installed in the community. Roanoke and Danville, Va., were the main shipping points. He would not grow tobacco, as he was opposed to its use.

As their fortunes improved, the Pooles drove a carriage to church and town, instead of a wagon, and eventually bought the first automobile in the community, and they were the first to install electricity.

Cana was also instrumental in organizing the Mt. Moriah Academy, just across the road from the church, to provide a good education for the local children. He was a trustee, a committeeman, and a chair of the school board. In that capacity, he was chosen to meet Gov. Charles B. Aycock at the train station in nearby Auburn, to take him to make the commencement address at the Academy, about 1902. When they reached the school, the children crowded around the surrey in such numbers, the governor had a hard time getting out.

The Poole children were driven the mile to school in the carriage in bad weather; but the rest of the time, they walked along the railroad track, being joined by cousins and friends as they drew nearer the school. This was a fun time, laughing and joking, and perhaps flirting, except on Friday, when everyone was busy learning their "piece," for recitation day. Teachers boarded in their home.

Another fun time was Christams Day at Grandpa Poole's where each child was given a stick of candy and an orange, shipped in each year from Florida. Another memorable event was the periodical trip to Raleigh, an all-day excursion. In the winter, the family would be loaded into the carriage, wrapped up to their necks in carriage robes, after a very early, and hearty breakfast. Traveling down the old Poole Road, they would stop about half-way to warm up at the home of kin, and have a hot drink, before continuing to Raleigh, where they did serious shopping to last several months. Belle once got a new pair of red leather slippers that so delighted her, that it was several days before she would take them off.

Another happily anticipated annual entertainment was Add and Cana's shad fry in the spring.

But the highlight of the year was the "First Week in August," when everyone stopped work and went to church revival. Dinner on the grounds each day was an interesting part of this occasion. Each little family and special hood families, who was a preacher, was calle on to deliver the sermon. Cana was a churc leader and deacon, and helped raise money f new church building.

Belle said she never heard her parents ex change an angry word or look; and Iana wrot long, loving letters to his daughters when the went on house-parties in the summer, bein gone several weeks. And in their strong beli in education, Cana and Add sent their daughters to Meredith College in Raleigh and th boys to Wake Forest College.

Cana's main hobby, if you can say a farme in those days had a hobby, was hunting birds rabbits, squirrels and wild turkeys. He an Nicholas P. Stallings, a Baptist preacher wh had married his half-sister Katie, used to swa hunting yarns and jokes, trying to outdo eac other in funny, tall stories.

Cana died unexpectedly at age 53, on Ma 9, 1919. Add continued to manage the farn with the help of an overseer, having a particularly difficult time during the depression. She always seemed calm and unworried; but she spen much time humming tunelessly, as she churne for butter or paced up and down her back porch She died at age 80, on June 13, 1946, leaving fou living children and four grandchildren.

PASCHAL POOL

Truly a "house by the side of the road" was the residence of Paschal Pool, son of Calvin Pool (q.v.) and a stabilizing influence in the Mt. Moriah Church community for many years.

Eldest son of Calvin Pool by his first wife, Sallie Mariah Smith, Paschal was born Feb. 22, 1847, and married Henrietta Penny, daughter of William and Elizabeth Avery Penny of nearby Johnston Co. on Dec. 8, 1870. He had farmed with his father, Calvin, and worked briefly as a clerk in a Raleigh grocery store owned by William Harris before his marriage.

"Old Man Penny," Paschal's father-in-law, had been once a local scout hired by the state government in the 1860's to report on Confederate Army defecters during the War Between the States. He frequently allowed consideration before arresting so-called "deserters" who had merely come home temporarily to help with the spring planting, and used to caution neighbors to "lie low tomorrow, boys; I'll be going on my rounds," according to great niece Bernice Kelly Harris in her autobiography, Southern Savory.

Old Mr. Penny gave the dwelling he lived in to his daughter Henrietta and his son-in-law. It is pictured here and was located just on the border of Johnston County on what used to be Secondary Road #2558 running southwards to the county line from present-day U.S. 70. This sandy, rutted country lane was immortalized by Bernice Kelly Harris in Wild Cherry Tree Road, published in 1951.

Paschal Pool, her uncle, had a counterpart in this book as the fictional "Hardy Pate" who was kind to all neighbors and was the "genteel" uncle who never seemed to have to plow or shout at mules like the other farmers of the Mt. Moriah area of St. Mary's Township. He was active in the church, helped organize a train excursion to Morehead City, and visited his brothers and sisters evenings to "sit until bedtime," chatting.

He never seemed to have to work . . . although he was not rich like his half-brother, Icana Pool. He and his sharp-tongued wife, Henrietta ("Cornelia Pate" in Wild Cherry Tree Road) frequently sat on their porch and rocked and fanned, drank lemonade, and entertained passersby, much to the consternation of the more hard-working landowners.

Paschal Pool house, ca. 1905, on Secondary Road #2558 in Wake County's St. Mary's Township, near U.S. 70 and Mt. Moriah Church. L. to R: Ava Pool, youngest daughter; Henrietta Pool, wife, and Paschal Pool, local farmer of southeastern Wake Co.

Paschal and Henrietta had five children, only two of whom survived and had issue. The first two children, William R. (Willie) and Sallie, both died in August, 1882, of influenza. Della, the third child, born May 18, 1876, was the first girl to have a formal wedding in old Mt. Moriah Church (usually weddings in the neighborhood were held in the parents' front parlor with a preacher or justice of the peace being brought in).

Della married William Bonnie Daughtry, a ministerial student at Campbell College (Buie's Creek), where she herself was a student and later a music teacher. The marriage was performed Nov. 27, 1901 by Rev. O.L. Stringfield, Baptist minister at Mt. Moriah. This church was lavishly decorated with flowers and white paper bells and ribbons, causing some elders and deacons to declare this "sinful" and too theatrical a spectacle for a House of God! Nevertheless, thereafter there was a "rash" of church weddings at Mt. Moriah.

Della's youngest sister "cried her eyes out" as she played the wedding march on the church organ for the ceremony, according to Southern Savory. Ava was the youngest child of Paschal and Henrietta Pool, born Oct. 29, 1886. (Another sister, Eulalia Pool, was born in 1880 and had died young at age 15).

Della and William Bonnie Daughtry had two children: William Bonnie, Jr., born Feb. 19, 1905 in Blackstone, Va., where his father was preaching, and Miriam, born Jan. 16, 1909, in Meherrin, Va. When Della's minister husband died Jan. 15, 1914, at age 40, she moved with her two children back to her parents' home in Wake Co. on "wild cherry tree road."

The son, Bonnie, Jr., married Mary Alice McVicker in 1931, became a Naval hero in World War II, and then lived in Florida until his death on Oct. 4, 1976. This couple had no children.

Miriam, only daughter of Della Pool Daughtry, never married but dedicated her life to nursing. She has been called the Mama of Practical Nursing in North Carolina," as she was a pioneer in the licensing of practical nurses in this state. As a child she attended old Mt. Moriah Academy and later Meredith College. A graduate of Meredith, Miriam taught school briefly locally. She once laughingly said, "I left teaching in my third year when I found out I was making less money than I did in my first year!"

She then enrolled in the Pennsylvania Hospital School of Nursing and earned an RN degree in 1936. She served as assistant director of nursing at North Carolina Baptist Hospi- other health connected offices. When she retired in 1974 she was educational consultant for the State Department of North Carolina Community Colleges and had received dozens of trophies, plaques, and silver momentoes including a certificate from the Governor for dedicated service to nursing. Her Alma Mater, Meredith College, honored her in May, 1979, as "alumna of the Year," and a delegation presented her with a gold medal in her hospital room where she was dying of cancer. Her death occurred later that same month in Rex Hospital.

Ava, youngest child of Paschal Pool, married Santford W. Martin, the noted Winston-Salem newspaper editor, on Oct. 2, 1910. They had two children: Edwina, who married Edward A. Crowther and lived in Maryland and Florida; and Santford, Jr., who married Frances Harrell and lives in Atlanta. Each of these has two children.

Paschal Pool's wife Henrietta died in 1921. He and his daughter Della and granddaughter Miriam (above) then rented out the old family place and moved to what was then Fuquay Springs. There, at age 78, he decided to remarry, this time to a 64-year-old widow, Mrs. Mary A. Watkins, in 1925. They had a happy old age together for four years before he died on Oct. 24, 1929, in Fuquay Springs.

An uncommonly rich man, a Wake County trusted official, a ghost on a white horse, an environmentalist before his time. All these descriptions could apply to one man, a long-time citizen of the county: William R. Poole.

Born on a Wake County plantation in 1796, William R. Poole was the eldest son of Lewis Pool, who was eldest son of the George Pool who first brought the family name to this part of North Carolina 35 years before the American Revolution.

Inheriting much land below Walnut Creek and on both sides of Great Branch (near present-day Jones Sausage Road), William Poole never married but parlayed his holdings into a vast estate of properties in and around what later became the city of Raleigh and the state capital. He had two brothers and a sister: Lewis Jr. (1798-1845), Ransom (1803-1868), and Martha "Molsey" who was born around 1805, married James H. Cooke in 1825 and produced many descendants whom William R. Poole took care of via his very thorough but complicated will.

This man became a justice of the peace, a county commissioner, and held several other

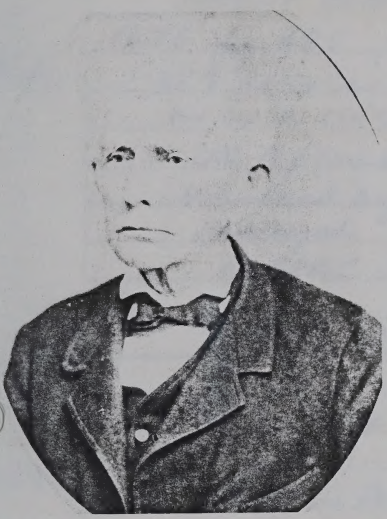
Wake County offices. Old records show he performed as J.P. many marriage ceremonies for Pool relatives and other county citizens.

He possessed great love of the land and particularly the large growth of pine trees which grew upon his property along what was then called Poole Road (new Rock Quarry Road.) Each day at dusk Poole could be seen riding his favorite white horse among the tall, sweet-smelling pines, always on the lookout for trespassers or those who would harm his woods. He was indeed a conservationist before his time.



William R. Poole.

Legend has it in Wake Co. that Poole patrolled his woods even after his death (which occurred April 2, 1889) allegedly mounted on the same white steed which was said to have been stolen from him by Union soldiers in a raid during the War Between the States. At the time of the raid by Gen. Sherman's soldiers, moving up toward Raleigh from Smithfield in 1865, William Pool was nearly 70 years old but full of fire and determination not to reveal to the enemy troops where he had hidden his valuables (reputedly considerable gold, not useless Confederate money.) This was in the last month of the war.

Sherman's men beat and tortured this elderly man, but he would not disclose the hiding place; they burned his mill and other properties which he had inherited from his grandfather George Pool via his father Lewis Pool. Still he would not talk. One story says that the Yankees then took his favorite white horse and left him badly beaten and bleeding with a broken nose. Other legends say he was tied to the horse and turned loose in his own beloved woods and that neighbors eventually found him and released him and tended his wounds.

He did not die, at any rate. After the Civil War he lived through the uncomfortable period of "Reconstruction," suffered not only by 92), a famous section contained a provision safeguarding a 75-acre tract known for many years as Poole's Woods. This was on the south side of Poole Road (also called sometimes the "New Berne Road") between Raleigh and the Great Branch of Walnut Creek.

For some reason, this stipulation was misinterpreted to mean Poole had willed his land to his dead body, "an untruth and legend which still persists today," according to Frances Holloway Wynne of Wake County and Fairfax, Va. Mrs. Wynne is a direct descendant of William R. Poole's sister Molsey and owns some of the ancestral land which belonged to her great-great-granduncle.

The will, however, clearly states that this early-day conservationist simply wanted to perserve intact the 75-acre tract "in original growth as it stands now without a single tree being cut or hauled from it." This will may easily be seen and read by visiting the N.C. Archives in Raleigh.

The myth persisted, nonetheless,about the woods "being willed to Poole's dead body." In addition, legends grew up that the ghost of Poole could be seen riding his famous white horse through the woods at dusk, protecting the tall pines on his property. The "ghost" also was supposed to protect the buried gold which, evidently, was never found. Many residents of the area until very recently have reported hearing strange sounds of hoofbeats or glimpsing a wraith-like horseman. These tales, including one about a bear "as big as a piano," have helped to keep trespassers away from the trees whose late owner tried so hard to preserve.

Politics and greed, however, eventually bested even the "ghost" and the tale of a bear. In the 1920's the 75-acre tract was put up for sale by descendants who hoped N.C. State College would buy and use the woods intact in a school of forestry. Red tape, politics, and legislative procrastination intervened to the contrary, unfortunately, and finally the tract was sold by the state to a lumber company interested only in felling the beautiful tall pines for cut timber . . . for anticipated profit and gain.

Ironically, and some say justifiably, the spirit of Poole prevailed and when the greedy loggers began cutting down the trees, the pines were found to be ridden with a mysterious internal rot . . . and the wood proved worthless! William R. Poole had thus the "last laugh."

Today little ramains of Poole's Woods. The area, much of which belonged to William R. and his unmarried brother Ransom, now has several housing developments along both sides of present-day Rock Quarry Road.

A single man himself, William R. Poole left no immediate heirs "of his body" but generously provided for the descendants of his sister Molsey (Mrs. James H. Cooke), of which there have been over two dozen down through the years. Poole's father, often referred to in official documents as "Captain" Lewis Pool.

Lewis Pool, as stated above, had been lef well off by his own father, George, who ha received land grants from the King in th 1740s and 1760s. Lewis Pool died in 180 before his wife Catherine did and named a Osborne Lockhart as administrator of his vas estate. A year later his widow married th administrator! She then bore two more chi dren and outlived her second husband. Thes children married into the Haywood, Yarbo ough, and Hope families. Some of these hal sisters and half nieces were also provided fc in William R. Poole's rather complicated an generous will. The old 19th century house c the family still stands in 1983, much alterec east of Great Branch and near the power line north of Rock Quarry Road . . . and is owne by descendants.

The name Poole remains preserved in one c Raleigh's main roads. But this Poole road di not exist before 1878; the Old Poole Road wa a continuation of Tarboro Road south out c Raleigh, past William R. Poole's and h brother's vast estate, across Great Branc past Ebenezer Church, down toward Batt Bridge Road and old Mt. Moriah Church whe thrived many Pools and Pooles, descendan of William R.'s grandfather, uncles, and mar cousins.
